

The REST label

Recognising organisations that promote an inclusive working climate and diversity at the workplace

Does your organisation employ a refugee or a person with migration background and promotes diversity and an inclusive working climate?

Let your stakeholders know about it - get the REST Label!

What does the REST label represent?

The REST project is aiming at creating and applying a comprehensive training and support system for enterprises that are interested in employing refugees. <http://rest-eu.org>

The REST label is a European quality label that provides a clear signal that your organisation has not only committed to hiring refugees or people with migration background but to apply approaches to successfully integrate them at the workplace.

It demonstrates to your employees, clients, customers, suppliers, etc. that your organisation is committed to implement comprehensive strategies to promote diversity and an inclusive working climate.

Get the REST label and show the world what your organisation's values are.

Who can get the REST label?

The REST label shall be awarded to those organisations that can demonstrate they meet the following criteria:

Having experience in the recruitment and integration of refugees or people with migration background into the workforce

Supporting and enabling refugees to become fully-fledged team members;

Sensitising and learning for all employees e.g. with intercultural learning, training and development;

Creating inclusive working climate which encourages diversity, involvement and empowerment of every team member

The REST Label will be awarded through a validated self-assessment process in which organisations present a clear case for how they meet these criteria.

Welcome!

Please use this online application form for your submission to the REST label for promoting inclusive working climate and diversity at the workplace.

Refugees and people with migration background wish to be active participants in their new home countries and communities. Finding a job to earn a living and to feel useful and valued at work is a big part of that. But in many cases opportunities are not available.

Your submission should demonstrate innovative and effective approaches to not only hire but to successfully integrate refugees or people with migrant background at the workplace.

We are looking for practice examples that actively promote a diverse and inclusive working climate where employees with migrant background are embraced and empowered as fully-fledged members of the work force - approaches that can inspire and be shared with other organisations and policy makers.

Please fill in all sections.
